

Point of Dispensing Operations Training

Description: The reason for this training is to provide Florida Department of Health in Miami-Dade (DOH-Miami-Dade) team members and volunteers an opportunity to learn about the Cities Readiness Initiative (CRI), Strategic National Stockpile (SNS), and basic POD operations to enhance our response efforts during activation of the CRI plan and opening of PODs throughout the community. Team members will be more confident when reporting to their assigned POD and fulfilling their assigned roles during activation..

Partners:

- Florida Department of Health in Miami-Dade County
- Medical Reserve Corps

Learning Objectives:

- To ensure trainees understand the importance of POD activation and when it would occur as well as for the instructor to gain a baseline of where the trainees are in relation to real world responses.
- Allow trainees who will be staffing the Open PODs to learn about the process, materials, and roles/responsibilities of working a POD.
- To ensure trainees understand a POD set up and flow, job roles and responsibilities, forms and prophylactic medications, process of moving clients through the POD, and ensuring correct and adequate dispensing of prophylactic medication.

Presentation:

- Presenter will ensure trainees are aware of client needs, and the resources that can be allocated.

Tips:

- Consider addressing frequently asked questions beforehand and taking back any questions to be answered in a follow-up email.
- Provide ample space and time to allow participants to complete a hands-on portion of the training to ensure they understand the various components of the training.
